

Music for Caring

Shruti Varadharajan, a Juliette from New Territory, earned her Girl Scouts Gold Award, the highest award given to a Girl Scout for demonstrating strong leadership skills and service to the community.

She led a group of young girls from the neighborhood and arranged concerts and parties to entertain senior citizens at the Greatwood Retirement Home and Assisted Living. She held several workshops for the girls on violin playing techniques and how to comfort senior citizens.

During the Thanksgiving holidays she decorated the community and donated decorations she had collected for them. Under her leadership, the group was involved in many artistic activities like music, decorating, card making, baking and designing a project logo for their concert T-shirts.

She says, "The concerts and parties brought cheers to the senior citizens. The girls on the other hand explored different art forms, learned about giving back to the community."
